The Political Economy of the Eurozone: Crisis and Prospects

An Interdisciplinary Workshop

The aim of the workshop is to look at the Eurozone by focussing upon the interdependencies between economic structures and political arrangements and by taking a long-period perspective. It will be emphasized that understanding the Eurozone crisis and prospects requires new categories of analysis that make it possible to explore the interface between the economic and political spheres, by combining the structural analysis of economic and political systems with historical analysis.

The workshop is organized jointly with the Cambridge Research Seminar in Political Economy.
